The Elephant and the Ant

The elephant and the ant were great friends despite the fact they were so different. All day long they were together and whenever they went on a journey the ant would sit in the elephants ear. One day they came to a rickety old bridge across a big canyon. The elephant stepped onto the bridge which began to wobble from side to side as he stepped across. 'Wow!' Said the ant, 'You know what Elephant my friend, together you and I are really making this bridge shake!'
